Impromptu—to Mary.

[On the author's quitting the company of some ladies whose society he formerly courted, notwithstanding the pressing invitations of the family to remain during the evening.]

Once was a time, sweetest girl, I have joy'd,
In the circle where gayety reign'd;
But, ah, with pains are those pleasures alloy'd,
For my heart from the world is estrang'd.

Oh! I have skipp'd over many an hill
With maidens accomplish'd and fair,
Yet I would court their society still
Were thou, my lov'd Mary, but there.

Vain now the charms of each maiden to me,
For no more on their beauties I dwell;
But yet there's a pleasure in gazing on THEE,
Which this bosom has felt, ah, too well!

[For the Saturday Evening Post.]

To Miss ——.

Can my aspiring wishes ever
Reach such state of bliss?
To gaze is rapture to my soul,
But extacy to kiss.

Pray, do not all confess thy charms?
And praise thy sparkling eye—
For me, I'd clasp thee in my arms,
To live—to love—and die.

How vain is man—yet love alone
Will plead my fond request:
On earth we'll form a place of love,
In heaven, a place of rest.

Alfred in reply to C. L. F. D.

Again, if you please, that elegant lack,
I'm inclin'd to dispense with it now,
For my feelings 'twould mortally shock,
To read it away from thy brow.

Ah! it dwells sad on my mind,
And sorely my heart it depresses,
To shelter thy head from the wind,
Other hath yielded her tresses.

Now I can sympathise truly;
The sufferings my pity engage—
Love is an urchin unruly,
That flies from both baldness and age.

I'm doubtful if ever I've known you,
If I do 'tis a mystery to me—
But believe me, I never shall own
That you are my dear C. L. F. D.

ALFRED.

[For the Saturday Evening Post.]

Messrs. Editors,

Should you consider the following Song, adapted to a very beautiful and popular air, a worthy your columns, an insertion of it would much oblige a correspondent.

SONG—The Warrior Knight.

Tune, "The Knight Errant."

Behold you yonder gallant steed,
Without the castle gate,
To bear his master off with speed,
Impatient he doth wait:
His master, aye the bravest knight,
Is destin'd for the war,
He goes to join the sanguine fight,
The glorious toils to share!

His gallant steed the knight bestrode,
His banner war'ot on high,
In tow'ring strength he onward rode,
And death beam'd from his eye:
Oh! proudly glow'd the hero's soul,
When near the hostile field,
His fiery charger spurns control,
His master scorns to yield!

The knight has sought the embattled plain,
For honour he has bled,
His course is mark'd with heaps of slain,
His steps with blood are red;
With ardour burns the hero's heart,
His breast to pity steel'd,
Resistless hurls the fatal dart,
'Gainst plaited mail and shield.

With victory now the knight is crown'd,
His warrior toils are o'er,
No more is heard the trumpet's sound
Amid the battle's roar;
To peaceful halls once more he flies,
His lady sad to cheer,
With joy to light those streaming eyes,
That drop for him the tear!

WINTER.

Behold the change with reverential awe—
He comes, he comes, with all his terrors arm'd;
See him extend his cold, his icy jaw,
And nip the plants which genial summer warm'd.

At his approach the face of nature fades,
All, all, a gloomy, dying aspect wears;
Now Boreas raging, desolation spreads,
And Autumn yielding, Winter's pow'r declares.

To Miss M. G. A.

I own there are maidens as lovely as thee,
Whose happiness nothing can mar,
Who weather each storm like a ship on the sea,
But thou art the SWEETEST by far.

'Tis true there are maidens accomplished and gay,
Who could my fond bosom enthral,
Yet no longer my heart will acknowledge their sway,
For thou art the DEAREST of all.

COLUMBIA.

Hail, happy land! by Columbus discover'd,
O'er thee, since '76,
Sweet Freedom has hover'd;
Peace smiles around—and Peans rise in devotion,
While great is thy fame,
O'er each clime and each ocean.

Thy Commerce is free, thy resources extensive,
Thy Liberty tree
To thraldom offensive:
Long since 'twas decreed by our wise benefactor,
Here man should find rest
And own no other Master. HANSA

[For the Saturday Evening Post.]

"I came to the place of my birth, and I cried,
The friends of my youth where are they?—and echo answered, Where are they?"

Ah! where are they?—a sigh we heave
Above the turf which shrouds their dust;
No more on this drear earth they grieve—
Their spirits mingle with the just.

We softly sigh, Ah! where are they?
And echo back our question throws;
Death's chilling grasp hath clos'd the eye,
And blanch'd the cheek where bloom'd the rose.

No more we hear the welcome voice—
The source of our festivity—
Their jocund spirits now rejoice
No more with us—Ah! where are they?

MADSEVET.

[For the Saturday Evening Post.]

On the death of T. Locke's child.

We see within this coffin plac'd
A lump of lifeless clay;
Jehovah's smile the infant grac'd,
And bore its soul away.

A babe she was whose smile so sweet
O'erjoy'd each parent's heart;
But now, a clay-cold corpse they greet,
Forevermore to part.

But she is borne from ills to come,
A world of toil and care—
We mournful follow to the tomb,
And read instruction there.

There's something seems a sign to wave,
Which strikes the bosom deep—
It seems so call us to the grave,
While o'er a grave we weep

Then let us every one prepare
To meet our coming doom,
That Death's approach we may not fear,
Nor dread the yawning tomb

Sweet Babe! thy soul ascends on high,
From troubles ever free,
Thy infant spirit seeks the sky
Enwrapt in extacy.

[For the Saturday Evening Post.]

On the death of Jesse Brown.

Do you see fair Aurora descending the sky,
Fast approaching his goal in the west;
He obeys the commands of his Ruler on high—
He obeys his Creator's behest.

His course was majestic, his exit serene;
On the heavens his beauties still glow—
His departure no clouds of regret intervene,
His career was untarnish'd by woe.

Thy transition, Jesse, thus glorious hath been,
Thy course was unruffled by care,
And purely exempt was thy conscience from sin,
And thy bosom a stranger to fear.

But thy hopes they are check'd, and life's tumults are o'er,
Thy sun hath set clear in the west
To the bosoms of Saints thy blest spirit doth soar,
There reclining forever at rest.

But while thy fond spirit inhabits the sky,
Thy body's consign'd to the grave,
And the low hollow breezes of night o'er thee sigh;
The traveller, too, mournfully passing thee by,
O'er thy dust the sad farewell shall wave.

And over thy tomb shall affection oft mourn;
It will prove a balsamic for care—
As deep has fond memory planted its thorn,
And the breasts of thy parents with anguish are torn,
While grim stalks the fierce giant despair.

Oh thee, thou fond mother, for now hard is thy doom,
May the blessings of heaven descend;
And when mournful repairing to weep o'er his tomb,
May his God thy worn bosom befriend.

Moral and Religious.

If ye know these things happy are ye if ye do them.—John viii. 17.

Consider first the necessity of knowing these things; and secondly, the necessity of doing them. In every art, trade or profession, we must first know what we are to do before we can do it. It is so in religion; but, God be thanked, the knowledge of religion lies in a very narrow compass. Though it take up time to learn an art or profession, yet the lowest amongst us may easily obtain a sufficient knowledge of religion for all the purposes of life. The great difficulty lies in the second point we are to consider:—not in knowing these things but in doing them. In every thing, as well as religion, practice is the end of knowing; without it, knowledge is useless. But what is singular in religious practice, it is the first way of gaining religious knowledge. If you apply every little knowledge you gain to practice, you will soon become a greater proficient in religious knowledge than if you had applied yourself with the greatest attention to the knowledge of it, and left the practice of it out of the question. If any man will do God's will, he shall know of the doctrine whether it be of God. Besides we are not so liable to error in practice as we are in knowledge. Right and wrong are much clearer ideas than truth and falsehood. A well intentioned mind may be led into enthusiasm, or superstition, but cannot so easily be led into wickedness.

INTERESTING EXTRACT.

"What a man soweth that shall he reap."

An ancient ecclesiastical historian tells us of Valens, the emperor, a maintainer of Arianism, that when eighty orthodox christians sailed from Constantinople to Nicomedie, to treat with him about those points, and to settle the matter in difference, this wicked emperor, hearing of their approach, caused the ships to be fired wherein they were, and consumed them all. But some time after, this cruel man, in his wars against the Goths, was worsted and put to flight, and hiding himself in a neighbouring cottage, the enemy came by, and burnt the cottage and him in it. "Here was, (as one observes,) burning for burning." It is remarkable, what our English chronicles relate concerning William II. surnamed Rufus: that having made a law that whosoever killed a deer should suffer the same punishment as if he killed a man, was himself killed by Sir Walter Tyrell, as he was shooting at a deer—the deer escaped, but the king lost his life. Nay, when God's own children have ploughed iniquity they have reaped the same, as may be seen in the case of David—2 Sam. xvii. 9, 10, 11.

Sojourn in this world as travellers, keeping so loose from the world as to be able to pack up and be gone from it upon short warning.
1 Pet. i. 17—1 Cor. vii. 29, 31.

We have no continuing city nor certain abode here, therefore let us always be ready to arise and depart. And if we would be right travellers towards Zion, we must have Christ in our hearts, heaven in our eye, and the world under our feet. We must take God's spirit for our guide, God's word for our rule, and God's glory for our end. We must make religion our business, prayer our delight, holiness our way, and heaven our home.

To be satisfied with the acquittal of the world, though accompanied with the secret condemnation of conscience, this is the mark of a little mind—but it requires a soul of no common stamp to be satisfied with its own acquittal, and to despise the condemnation of the world.

COURAGE.

That courage which prompts us to court death, is but the courage of a moment, and is often excited by the vain hope of posthumous fame. There is a species of courage more necessary and more rare, which makes us support without witness and without applause, the various vexations of life, and that is patience. Leaning not upon the opinions of others, but upon the will of GOD, patience is the courage of virtue.

HAPPINESS

The virtuous cultivation of the mind is the only source of enjoyment to be depended on. We may seek pleasure in vain, if we seek it otherwise than as a relaxation from more serious pursuits.

The plainest man may pay a tention to the ladies will sometimes succeed as well as the handsomest man in the kingdom, and I the plainest, but I would give you half an hour's start, and yet come up with you in the affections of any woman we both wished to win; because all those attentions which you would omit on the score of your fine exterior, I should be obliged to pay owing to the deficiencies of mine."

THE PEDLAR—No. 7.

A GOOD WIFE.—A good wife should be like three things, which three things she should not be like.

She should like a town clock, keep time and regularity; she should not like a town clock, speak so loud that all the town may hear.

She should be like an echo, speak when she is spoken to; she should not be like an echo, always to have the last word.

She should like a snail, keep within her own house; she should not like a snail carry all she has upon her back.

[Old Almanac

The King of Prussia had heard that a corporal in his regiment of body guards, who was well known as a remarkably handsome and brave young man, wore, out of vanity, a watch chain, suspended from a leaden bullet in his fob. He had the curiosity to enquire into the circumstance himself, and an opportunity was contrived that the king should meet the corporal as by chance, without suspecting any design. "Apropos, Corporal," said the king, "you are a brave fellow to have saved enough from your pay to buy a watch." "Brave," replied the corporal, "I flatter myself that I am, but as to my watch it is of little signification." The king took out a gold watch set with diamonds, and said, "By my watch it is five; what o'clock are you, pray?"—"My watch, (replied the corporal, pulling out, with trembling hand, his bullet,) tells me neither five nor six, but shews me clearly the death I am to die in your majesty's service." "Well then, (said the king,) that you may likewise see the hour among the twelve in which you are to die in my service, I will give you mine."

Sir George Staunton, who attended Lord Macartney on his embassy to China, relates the following anecdote of old Kein Long, emperor of China. He was enquiring of Sir G. the manner in which physicians were paid in England; when, after much difficulty, his majesty was made to comprehend the system, he exclaimed, "Is any man well in England that can afford to be ill? Now, I will inform you, (said he,) how I manage my physicians.—I have four to whom the care of my health is committed; a certain weekly salary is allowed them, but the moment I am ill, the salary stops till I am well again. I need not inform you my illnesses are usually short."

We are frequently called upon to admire the devices and signs, adopted by shopkeepers and others, to designate their trade and attract public attention. The following appears pre-eminently to challenge distinction. Over a tobacconist's shop was placed a board, on which were painted three hands, holding a pinch of snuff, a pipe, and a quid of tobacco; and underneath was written this delicious couplet:

"When three is engaged in one cause;
I snuffs, I smoke—I chews!"

A MAP OF LIFE.

Having cast our eyes over the pages of a new paper, we could but be struck with the variety of intelligence conveyed in a single sheet. It first states the wholesale price current, which brings to view the bustle of merchandize—then follows an half column of applications for letters of administration, forcibly reminding us that many of these lately active individuals are now quietly reposing in the arms of death, and that many clamorous relatives and friends are thinking more of their property than of their ashes. The intelligence now takes a bolder swell—we are informed what a large congregation of transitory mortals are doing in their legislative capacity—these men talk about their rights as if they were of eternal duration. Then a case of piracy occurs, shewing how these important characters may hasten the app ointment of the king of terrors, as if death delayed his advances too long. Then we have an account of a penitentiary, explaining the mode adopted by society to secure to the possessors of property the means of enjoying it, during the regular advances of death. Then comes a project of internal improvement, that for the little time that we do remain upon this earth, we may be allowed the use of internal canals; that we may divert rivers from their ancient courses, every particle whereof reminds us of the flow of human existence—then come advertisements for builders, stone masons, and what not, to inform us, that these tenants of an hour must build houses for their residence that will stand longer than themselves, erecting superb mansions for others to inhabit. At last in a little obscure corner of the newspaper, we find an obituary—passed over as an ordinary event to remind us after all of how little consequence we are.

[Baltimore Morning Chronicle.

Bonaparte, when Emperor of France, ordered letter boxes to be fitted up in all the churches of Paris, where the poor, without their delicacy being wounded, could, as they pass, deposit a note expressive of their wants. These boxes were only opened by the higher clergy, who were sworn to secrecy, and the wants of the parties were thus relieved without any humiliating circumstances of a public application.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

We copy the following singular case from the New-York Commercial Advertiser—the counsel named Wor[illegible] is the celebrated Judge Workman, lately resided among us, and conducted with such distinguished ability, the Analectic Magazine. He had, theretofore, been several years a presiding judge of a Court at New-Orleans, and enjoyed the possession of numerous honourable and lucrative offices. His powerful talents and extensive legal knowledge must have been conspicuously displayed on that side of the cause which he advocated on the occasion now referred to.

A New Orleans paper of the 12th of December contains an account of the termination of a curious and singular law case, in the United States District Court. This was a suit instituted by Peter D'Hegny, Esq. as agent or attorney for the heirs of Bertrand Gravile, now residing in France, against Bernard Marigny, a member of the senate of Louisiana from the city of New Orleans, for slandering the title of the said heirs to the Batture, by the publication of a speech delivered in the senate previous to the introduction of a bill amendatory of a former law, prescribing certain duties to the attorney general, and enjoining him to prosecute such persons as should attempt to hold the Batture under pretext of any title thereto. The damages claimed by the plaintiff, were one hundred thousand dollars. Messrs. E. Livingston, Workman, and D'Hegny, appeared as counsel for the plaintiff, and Mr. A. L. Duncan, and Mr. J. H. Hardin for the defendant. The principal ground taken by the counsel for the plaintiffs, was, that though Mr. Marigny had a right, as a member of the legislature, to make the speech complained of, yet he had no right to publish it.

The principles laid down by Judge Dick were in perfect consonance with the theory of our government. He decided, that the right to speak was not necessarily a right to publish, and he remarked that it was also the duty of legislators, in many cases, to make known to their constituents the course they have pursued, and the language and arguments they have used.

Although the science of medicine has arrived to such perfection as to enable its professors to decide regarding the nature of disease, and the most proper means for its removal, yet there are many cases, probably depending on constitutional idiosyncrasy, which very frequently resist all the known remedies. Scrofula and syphilis are among these—they frequently take on peculiar and horrible forms in their latter stages, producing painful ulcers, and a train of evils, which continue to increase in despite of all the known remedies.

The following facts, however, show that a remedy for these diseases, in their worst forms, is within the reach of our practitioners. At the last course delivered on the 14th ult at the University of Pennsylvania, by professor Gibson, two patients were exhibited who had been afflicted with ulceration in its most frightful form for several years in the throats, lips, and nose, as well as the bones and soft parts of the face were partly destroyed in both patients, and in one an eye was entirely lost. The learned professor, in the course of his lecture, stated the cases of these patients—that they had been treated in the usual way without success; and that they were finally restored to perfect health by the use of a medicine recently introduced in this city, known by the name of SWAIM'S PANACEA.

I deem this communication a just tribute to the virtues of a medicine which I think bids fair to be the means of relieving a great deal of human suffering. That remedy which a learned and respectable professor has thought worthy of a particular notice before a numerous class of students, would seem to have claims to the attention of every professor of the healing art.

PENNSYLVANIA LEGISLATURE.

Our Legislature have been in session a number of weeks without any thing of importance being transacted. No bill has yet been presented for the establishment of a Loan Office, and there seems but little excitement concerning the repeal of the act laying a duty on the retailers of foreign merchandize. A great number of applications for divorces continue to be presented and referred to committees.

The Senate have assigned next Monday week for the election of Bank Directors.

The bill to increase the compensation of the Associate Judges of the Court of Common Pleas for the city and county of Philadelphia, has passed through a committee of the whole in the House of Representatives; as also the bill to incorporate the Lehigh Navigation Company. A variety of amendments have been made to the latter bill, some of which it is thought will have a tendency to defeat the object of the incorporation.

MILITIA FINES.

A resolution was submitted on the 3d. inst. in the Senate of Pennsylvania, by Mr. Wurts, calling for information relative to fines incurred by the delinquent militia of this state, during the late war. The resolution was agreed to, and the Secretary of State, in obedience thereto, has given a statement of the proceedings in this vexatious business. It appears that 20,387 men were placed under the orders of the United States, and that the amount of fines incurred by citizens of Pennsylvania, for non-performance of militia duty, amounts to $294,974!!

In 1818, Thomas Sergeant, then secretary of state, applied to the officers of the general government for information whether the power of remitting the fines of delinquents was vested in the President of the U. States, or the governor of the state; in reply, it was given as the wish of the president that the governor should exercise that power.

The executive of this state has remitted $34,132 24 cents of the fines above stated, leaving a balance of $260,842 76 cents unaccounted for, in the hands of the Marshals and their deputies.

A joint resolution has been introduced in the Legislature, requesting our Senators and Representatives in Congress to have a law passed authorising the payment of these fines into the State Treasury.

COMMUNICATION.

EXPEDITIOUS.—During the past week, there has been a set of Sleighs running from Fair Mount dam to the Falls of Schuylkill, on the ice, for the accommodation of persons living in the neighborhood, and those citizens that wish to take a jaunt to the above place. On Monday afternoon last, one of the Sleighs belonging to Mr. Snare, drawn by his two fine mares, started from the dam and arrived at the falls in the short space of eight minutes, a distance of three miles and upwards. This is undoubtedly very fast trotting. K.

A SUBSCRIBER.

Lamentable Accident.—A few days since, an accident occurred in Hamilton village, in the neighbourhood of this city, which adds another instance to the many, which have occurred through ignorance in the art of making varnish. A person who follows the business of a painter and glazier, in the village, having occasion to make some varnish, had added the necessary quantity of spirits of wine to the other ingredients, and the whole being placed in a large bottle, delivered it to his wife, with directions to shake it 30 times before he returned, he having occasion to be absent. The bottle she placed upon a ten plate-stove in the room in which she sat with her little family, consisting of an infant and two children, one about 8 years old, the other a little older. After having shaken it about half the number of times prescribed, and having again placed the bottle upon the stove, it burst in consequence of the heat, and the liquid taking fire, was projected over the mother and the two children, who were enveloped in flames. The oldest child, being near to the door was not so much injured as the others, and had sufficient presence of mind to open it and procure relief; but the unfortunates were burned in such an awful manner that the child and the infant have since died, and the mother lies in such a languishing condition, that but little hopes are entertained of her recovery.

NEW CONSTITUTION OF NEW-YORK.

The Constitutional Election terminated in New-York on Thursday evening. The majories in favor of the new Constitution, in the city, will probably be 4500. In Brooklyn it is said to exceed 350. Few votes were given in.

Miscellaneous.

A NEW MINT.—A person by the name of Walton has been detected in a cellar in New-York, with two large iron presses, stamping twenty-five cent pieces to a large amount for St. Domingo and other parts. A number of Dies for different coins were found upon him. This business, it appears, has been carried on for some time to a great extent. The metal is composed of copper and silver—about 1-4th of the latter.

On the 27th ult. the two Indians, convicted of the murder of Dr. Madison and Charles Ulrich, were executed at Detroit. Their firmness during their last moments, was remarkable—they confessed their guilt and were convinced of the justice of their execution.

An unsuccessful application has been made to the Governor of New-Jersey, for a reprieve until the meeting of the Governor and Council in May next, in behalf of Wilhelmus Van Auken, who was sentenced to death last November, for murdering his wife. The sentence will, therefore, be executed on Friday, the 25th inst.

A Lucky Accident.—Last October, says a Montreal paper, as a boy of the name of Cole, employed in the Lachine Canal as a blaster, was passing through the forge attached to the work, carrying about six pounds of gunpowder, a spark flew out on it, caused it to expode, and had no other effect than excoriating the deep and thickly studded pock-marks from his face, which thence forward became as smooth and white as any young lady could desire her's to be.

ROBBERY.—A Mr. George Ward was attacked by two ruffians, near the north end of Seekank Plains, (R. I.) on the evening of the 11th inst. They were armed—seized his reins, and after giving him several blows, robbed him of his pocket book, containing 114 dollars in money, a letter containing about 20 dollars, besides notes of hand, and other papers.

The Curlew, arrived at Savannah, brings information, that the Spanish refugee privateers in the vicinity of Santa Martha, were capturing all American vessels they fell in with. The U. S. schr. Grampus, Lieut. Gregory, sailed the day previous to the sailing of the Curlew, to protect the trade in that quarter.

Providential escape from Drowning.—On Wednesday week, as Capt. Henry Quiner, of Marblehead, (Mass) with his daughter Susan, and son Henry, were sitting in a chaise, conversing with a gentleman on the wharf, the horse growing restive backed over the capstain and immersed the whole in the water, breaking the ice in the fall, which was about 15 feet; the daughter sunk twice, the father and son kept themselves up by holding on the chaise and broken ice; the horse prevented their sinking by keeping his fore feet firm on the ice. Aid was immediately afforded, and they were all taken out without much injury.

Longevity in Georgia.—Mrs. Phœbe Johnson, aged 109 years, is still living at Columbia county. She came with her husband to this country in 1732, and was the first white female that landed in Georgia. It is stated that the old lady intends to remove with her son-in-law and his family, to Alabama, in the course of a few weeks.

The body of an aged maniac, named Irwin, of Cumberland, (Penn.) was found frozen to death on the morning of the 11th inst. He has for a number of years, been travelling through the country, sweating and toiling; and thought he possessed inexhaustible wealth in precious ores, &c. in various parts of the U. States.

An animal of the cat species of enormous size and strength, was killed on Saturday, the 29th ult. in Roxbury, (Vert.) It measures seven feet in length, three feet in height, and weighs one hundred and eighteen lbs. It is, no doubt, a real Catamount. The victors draw a bounty of 20 dollars from the county.

An attempt was made at New-York on Sunday night, to set fire to several houses in Barclay street, by placing a large quantity of matches under the stoop and between the houses. The matches were in full fire when fortunately it was discovered by some person passing, who alarmed the neighbours, and a great conflagration was perhaps prevented.

Another Piracy.—Capt. Saunders of the schooner James Monroe, arrived at Norfolk, from New-Orleans, reports that, "The schr. Planet, Dennison, arrived at the Balize the 21st of Dec. in 13 days from St. Thomas. On the 16th, off Cape Antonio, was boarded by two piratical schrs. of 15 or 20 men each, which robbed the captain of all the money he had on board, about $300, 38 bags of coffee, 40 boxes of cider; took all the clothing and blankets belonging to the captain and mate, and flogged the former severely, to extort from him where the balance of the money was concealed.

More Pirates Taken.—We are gratified to learn, says the Charleston Courier, that the British men-of-war in the West Indies, are at last following the laudable example set them by the cruizers of the U. States. Capt. M'Lellan, of the ship Liverpool, arrived at Charleston on the 3d inst. from Turks Island, informs us that on the 23d ult. H. B. M. schr. Speedwell, Lieut. Geary, captured in Turks Island Passage, a piratical schr. and brought her into that port. The same day a British man-of-war brig arrived there, having on board, in irons, five piratical privateersmen, which she had taken a short time previous, on board an armed vessel in the vicinity of Santa Martha. Another man-of-war brig had passed through the Passage about a week previous, with a number of these buccaneers—both vessels being on their way to Jamaica with the prisoners.

HORRID MURDER.

Seldom have the inhabitants of Virginia been presented with a more tragical scene than was witnessed in Mecklenburg—James Hunt, who lives near Spanish Grove, in this county, his 3 daughters, one about 18 years old, one about 12, and the youngest about 8, and a negro boy, about the age of 13, were all the persons belonging to his family. Mr. Hunt having gone to Richmond, left his three daughters and the negro boy at home. On Thursday evening the 13th of Dec. the eldest daughter chastised the boy for misconduct. At their usual hour the three girls went to bed, their beddings having been placed before on the floor near the fire. A short time before day the girls caused the boy to make a fire, and again went to sleep, but soon slept the sleep of death, for the boy, irritated by the chastisement lately received, and instigated by a diabolical desire of revenge, as soon as he perceived them tranquil, horridly murdered the three sisters, as they lay asleep, by beating out their brains with an axe.

Having remained after the perpetration of the murder until day, he took whatever he imagined valuable to him, and set fire to the house, which was burnt down, and every article of Hunt's household furniture was consumed; several persons who saw the fire, hastened to the spot and got the girls out before they were entirely consumed. But so deformed were they by the fire that no human beings ever presented a more horrible appearance. Upon taking the boy up, he confessed every circumstance. A coroner's jury, upon examining into the case, called him before them, when he stated to the jury every circumstance, agreeable to his former confession. He is now in jail and no doubt ample justice will be rendered to one whose youthful villainies have been so execrable. [Richmond En.

Arkansa., Nov. 24.

A detachment of 250 soldiers, under the command of Col. Arbuckle, of the 7th regiment United States' Infantry, arrived at the mouth of the Arkansas a few days since, from New-Orleans. We understand they will proceed up the Arkansas to Fort Smith, as soon as boats can be procured for their conveyance.

The remainder of the same regiment, under the command of Lieut. Col. Taylor, left New-Orleans on the 6th inst. in the steam-boat Courier, for the military post at Natchitoches, on Red River.

Providence, January 12.

It was stated to us yesterday, by a gentleman from Scituate, that within the space of ten days, five children had been burnt to death in that place and in the towns of Foster and Gloucester. These melancholy instances of premature death by fire, ought to admonish parents to be watchful of their young children. At this inclement season, they approach the fire incautiously and with eagerness, and often fall victims to the relentless element.

THE NEXT PRESIDENT.

We copy the following well written article on the subject of the next President, from the Cincinnati Advertiser:

The Editors of newspapers in the Southern sections of the Union "have moved the question" who shall be the next President. They have brought on the turf two nags of good pedigree, high carriage, and some bottom, that are in high keeping, and have long been in training under the most experienced sportsmen in this country. But we think their nags are not of so high mettle, nor so good bottom as the New-York colt Young Canal—although it is objected to Young Canal, by the knowing ones, that he bears too hard on the bit, and that he is too much in the practice of running strait forward to do well on a circular course; yet, in our opinion, he is so well bred, and moves in such elegant style, that the bets on him, in this state, will probably be two to one.

MATRIMONY.

A curious circumstance lately occurred on the subject of this holy state. A couple engaged themselves to be married; the day was fixed; the company was invited; the ring, the parson, the cake, and all the other occasional comforts were prepared; the bride and bridegroom dressed and perfumed, were seated near the fire billing and cooing. Every thing was ready: when lo! and behold, just before the parson said those ominous words, "love, honour and obey," the fickle bridegroom changed his mind, and refused to marry. In vain were the prayers and entreaties of friends urged; in vain the tears and anger the bride exhibited; the gay Lothario was inexorable. Here sat the bride overwhelmed with grief; there the iced plumbcake and cordial, untouched, while reason and argument were thrown away upon the obstinate lover. At length, the friends of the lady became enraged, and at two o'clock in the morning, were about beating the bridegroom into compliance with his engagement, when he made his escape, and the next morning swore the peace against those guests who had attempted to thump him into matrimony, when these facts leaked out, and the parties were bound over. DEBTOR AND CREDITOR.

Two English merchants, transacting business together in this city, have had lately some personal difference on the subject of profit and loss, which was attempted to be settled by one of the parties thrashing the other. The injured partner of the house repaired to the police, and made his complaint in due form, when a warrant was issued against the offender, who was brought up to answer the charge. The magistrates demanded security for $200, with his own recognizance to keep the peace; but the bruiser not being able to obtain bail, deposited with a person in the office a sum sufficient to be his bail, which was done. He then inquired, with much simplicity, whether he would forfeit the sum if he again beat his partner. Being answered in the affirmative, he darted from the office, pursued him and again threshed him; was again brought up, and no person appearing to bail him, and having no more money as collateral security, he was committed for one day to Bridewell, from which he is now released on security. What readers this transaction more singular, the person thus beaten declares that the $200 forfeited came out of the joint funds of the house. This is a new way to wind up a mercantile concern. Query—How would Mr. Bennet, who is an able book-keeper, post this account?—[Ib.

The Evening Post.

PHILADELPHIA.

Saturday, January 19, 1822.

The next number (26) of the SATURDAY EVENING POST completes the first half year of its publication. There may be, all probability, some among our patrons who would wish to stop their subscriptions in which case, we should thank them send a note to the office, communicating their determination, for when it is mentioned to the carrier, he neglects or forgets to inform us of it, and thereby subjects both parties to unnecessary trouble.

Being upon this subject, we take leave respectfully to request those of our fellow-citizens who are disposed to extend to us the fostering influence of their patronage, to leave the prices of their subscriptions at the publication office, and not to entrust them to the carriers, unless they exhibit their receipts. We are not the first who have had to complain of the purchase, from the bearers of papers—either by money or gratuities—but we shall certainly be among the first to prosecute to conviction any person conniving at, or encouraging a practice detrimental to the interests of our establishment, and to the morals of those whom we retain in our employ. We have detected more than one instance of this kind, and we trust the hint will not be lost upon those who are convinced of the truth of the assertion.

AGRICULTURE.

The Agricultural Society of New York, have petitioned congress, to admit free of duty, the entry of all seeds imported into this country—for the improvement of its agricultural and horticultural interests. Mr. Colden, a representative from that state, and president of the society, is charged with the presentation of the memorial to the lower house. It is recommended by that society, that similar institutions, throughout the country, may emulate the example, and unite their efforts to procure the passage of such a law. Mr. Colden's well known and powerful talents, will no doubt be ably exerted in this interesting and popular cause. The advancement of agriculture has, of late years, been supported by the first and greatest men in the country, and their attention extensively applied to the improvement of the soil, and the invention of implements of husbandry by which it is to be worked.

At the annual meeting of the "Philadelphia Society for promoting Agriculture," held on Tuesday last, an address was delivered by Nicholas Biddle, esquire, elucidatory of the benefits and effects resulting to mankind from the cultivation of the earth, and the promotion of agricultural associations. On this occasion several newly invented machines were exhibited—among them one for the bruching of flax, and a dynomometer—to prove the strength of draft horses and oxen in ploughs—and also the properties of the plough, and of wheel carriages.

Colleges and Universities.

An emulous zeal begins to be manifested throughout the union, in the erection of these noble literary edifices. The endowments for their support and maintenance have been extensively large, and the protecting power of the several state legislatures, has been munificently apportioned to a various number of these institutions. Is this a reproach upon the committee of congress, which denied to the Transylvania University, the freedom of importing books for that establishment, without the payment of custom house duties. Whilst it displays the general feeling of the people, right it not to be received as an instructive hint by their representatives, that the limited revenue derivable from a duty upon the few imported printed works, whilst it operates upon the funds of the Universities, does not tend materially to augment those of the government. Should not this fact give additional weight to the lucid, sensible and argumentative memorial of the philosopher of Monticello. We know not what view Mr Holmes, of Maine, took of this subject, but from our knowledge of his fine mind, and strong intellectual capacity, we think he must look at the acts of the local legislatures, as a powerful commentary upon the report in the senate, against the expediency of the measure of a repeal.

The two houses of assembly of Virginia, have appropriated a site of 260 acres of land, and the sum of 267,700 dollars for the erection of a University, which is to be comprised of ten pavilions for the accommodation of the professors—109 dormitories, and six hotels for the students.

The legislature of the state of Georgia, has appropriated 25,000 dollars for the erection of a college, with an investment of 5000 dollars annually for its future maintainance.

That of Kentucky, not behind hand with her sister states, in the dissemination of learning, and the diffusion for its means, has consigned one half of the nett profits of the commonwealth's bank for the support of free schools—one half of the profits of the bank, accruing in Fayette county, to pay the debts of the Transylvania University—one third of those accruing for two years in Mercer county to the Centre College at Danville—and one third of those accruing for two years in Warren, to the Southern College at Bowling Green. The first appropriation considered equal to 60,000 dollars, the second to 30,000 dollars, the third to 3000 dollars, and the fourth to 2000 dollars, per annum.

A report having been circulated at Washington city, charging the Pennsylvania delegation with having met for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the Presidency, a member thereof, through the National Intelligencer, says the story is entirely destitute of truth.

Of the activity and vigilance of the administration of this local department of the Government, both by its ministerial and executive officers, we, in common with our fellow citizens, have always had good reason to boast.—We do not apprehend that those who have been entrusted with the superintendance of the police, have erased from the tablets of their memories, the duties which law and necessity make it incumbent upon them to perform; but there has certainly been a laxity of late, which endangers the property and personal safety of the inhabitants. Several daring instances have occurred, within a short period, of House-Breaking and Burglary. The night watch must be either scandalously remiss, or is not sufficiently numerous to guard the property of the citizens, or has adopted the axiom that "discretion is the better part of valour." We can constantly hear of the registering of bursting of water pipes, the fine for which goes half to the informer, and the discovery of which is made in the night by the "Dogberrys and Verges" of the watch-box, but we hear very little of the apprehension of thieves and unlawful night rovers. Several bare-faced attempts have been recently made upon gentlemen's dwellings without detection; among which, the house of Mr. Harmes, in Walnut street, was successfully broken into, and on Thursday evening that of Mr. Borie, in Eighth street, was attempted to be entered, though the culprits met not with the same good fortune.

CONGRESS.

The congressional debates at Washington are daily assuming a character of great national interest. We congratulate our own growing and prosperous republic, that the Pennsylvania delegation is not behind the deputation from any other commonwealth in point of political talent. This state is, we believe, as ably and faithfully represented as the utmost desire of its citizens could wish it to be, and, we look at the reports of the debates with an enthusiastic pride and pleasure. Our own immediate fellow citizen, Mr. Sergeant, we perceive is pushing to maturity the long desired Bankrupt Bill, which it is conjectured will pass both Houses, with a conciliating amendment.

In the Senate a very animated debate is going forward upon the resolution of Mr. Johnson of Kentucky, to amend the constitution of the United States, so as to erect that branch of the national Legislature into a Court of Appeals, to decide finally all causes, to which either of the states may be a party, or to which they may desire to become a party. Col. Johnson has been very elaborate upon this subject, and was expected to be followed in the discussion by Mr. Pinkney of Maryland, in opposition to his resolution. We have before this time, heard that gentleman's sentiments expressed in his usual style of brilliant eloquence, upon the interposition of Legislative acts, after the decisions of a judiciary tribunal. A case of this nature was before the Senate of the state he represents, which takes upon itself the right of reversing the judgments of its own Superior Court; and which, considering the manner in which that body is elected, (vacancies being supplied by its own vote,) is rather an extraordinary practice. Mr. Pinkney will doubtlessly exhibit, in forcible language, the danger of touching the constitution on this particular point.

In the house of representatives, Mr. Sergeant, on the 14th inst. from the committee on the Judiciary, reported a bill to provide for delivering up persons held to labour or service in any of the states or territories, who shall escape into any other state or territory; which was twice read and committed.

Mr. Nelson, of Maryland, after adverting to the importance of the subject of the motion which he had laid on the table some days since, proposing the appointment of a committee to consider the expediency of making appropriations of Public Lands for the purposes of education in the old states, and to the fact that it had received the approbation of several states, and therefore was entitled to the serious attention of this house, moved that the house should now proceed to the consideration of that motion.

The house agreed to consider it.

Mr. Cook moved to amend the resolution, by inserting after the word "states" the following words: "And also of making a similar appropriation for the support of a National University in the District of Columbia."

In the senate on the 10th inst. according to the order of the day, the members proceeded to the consideration of the joint resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution, for establishing an uniform mode of electing electors of president and vice president of the United States and representatives to congress; which, being before the senate for discussion—

Mr. Dickerson said, the subject had been so often and so fully discussed, here and elsewhere, and was so fully understood, he did not propose to offer a single remark in favor of his motion, but to submit it to a silent expression of the sense of the senate. As a principle that every man proposing an amendment to the constitution was bound to prove a plain and palpable mischief, and to shew that his proposition embraced a clear remedy for it, and called on Mr. Dickerson, especially as there were several new members in the senate, in whose presence this question had not been discussed, to disclose the grounds on which he asked their votes in favor of his motion.

For his part, Mr. B. said, he had always been opposed to this proposition, believing it to be fraught with more mischief than it promised good—and, so thinking, had heretofore expressed his opinion of it. He was not only willing but desirous to hear the gentleman from New Jersey present to the senate his views in favor of it.

When I have heard him, said Mr. B. in the language of the quakers, if the spirit move me, I also will express my views of this question.

Mr. Dickerson said, if the spirit would not move the gentleman without his help, it would not move him at all.

On the same day, in the other House, Mr. Smith, of Maryland, from the committee of ways and means, made a report adverse to the expediency of increasing the annual appropriation for arming the militia; which was read and ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. Floyd laid upon the table the following resolution:

Resolved, That the president of the U. States be requested to cause to be laid before this house all the correspondence which led to the Treaty of Ghent, which has not yet been made public, and which, in his opinion, it may not be improper to disclose.

The house, on motion of Mr. Condict, took up the resolution yesterday laid on the table by him; and, after modifying it, at the suggestion of Mr. Lathrop, by striking out the clause which requested the president's opinion as to the further legislative provisions necessary to enable him to protect the rights of our citizens from piratical aggression, the resolution was adopted.

The Speaker presented a communication from the Secretary of the Treasury, in conformity to a resolution of the house, calling for information respecting the payment over of moneys received by the Marshal of the Eastern District of the State of Pennsylvania, for military fines; which, on motion of Mr. Darlington, was laid on the table, and ordered to be printed; and

The House adjourned.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT—On the afternoon of the 17th inst. as DAVID LANDIS, of Attleborough, Bucks County, Penn. was driving his waggon with a load of boards, and while descending a hill, the boards slid forwards against the horses; they took fright, and threw him from the waggon; his head coming in contact with the wheels, his skull was fractured, so that he died in a short time afterwards. He has left one son and three daughters, who have to lament the loss of the best of fathers, and society of a valuable member.

"Inastiate archer!" one did here suffice;
But, oh, that one, had't thou but longer spared,
What threes, what anguish would his offspring shun.

He will be buried from his residence at half past nine o'clock, to-morrow morning.

Late from Sierra Leone.

New-York, Jan. 18.

Arrival of the Shark.—The U. S. schr. Shark, M. C. Perry, Esq. commander, whose arrival below we mentioned yesterday afternoon, by the steam boat Nautilus.

The Shark is from a cruise of 162 days among the Canaries, Cape de Verds, coast of Africa, and last from the West Indies, and has been 150 days at sea.

The Shark left Sierra Leone Nov. 1st.—The colonists were then all well. They were still at Guarny Bay. The slave trade is still carried on with great activity under French, Portuguese, Spanish and Dutch flags. The mortality had been very great on the coast of Africa; during the last year two thirds of two-thirds of the white European and American emigrants had died.—The British cruizers had suffered very severely, particularly in officers. Mr. Winn and wife, Rev. Mr. Andrus, and six of the blacks, died in July and August.

The Shark boarded a great many Guineamen on the coast, some of which she detained some time, one of them a French schr. of 78 tons, with 153 slaves on board; but not an American was to be heard of, and it was pretty well ascertained that there are no American citizen at present engaged in the traffic.

The following slave vessels were boarded in the month of July, off Cape Mount, at Old Calabar, Lagos Roads, and in the river Calabar, by the Snapper, British brig of war; French schooners L'Etincelle, Audbert, from Bordeaux; L'Hypolite, H. Dupreyes, from Martinique; brig Neptune, Duvaynes, from Cayenne, Portuguese ship Mercury, from St. Salvador; brigs Bonifere, from Lisbon; Bonea Hora, Aliana, and Strella, from St. Salvador; schr. Conceicad, from do. and Spanish schr. Del Carmen, from Havanna. It was supposed, upon the most moderate calculation, the above vessels would carry from the coast at least 6000 slaves; in addition, the Myrmidon, had examined a number of other vessels, in the same period. In the beginning of August, there were three hermaphrodite brigs and two schooners under the French flag, waiting for slaves at the mouth of the Gallinas; and about the end of October, four other vessels, under the same flag, came to anchor off the bar, and were preparing to send their cargoes on shore for slaves. There had been no slave vessels lately in the Rio Pongos.

Captain Perry informs, it was reported at Havanna, that the Enterprize, captain Kearney, had captured a piratical boat off Cape Antonio, landed, and burnt their huts. Matanzas was blockaded by the Independencia, and one other patriot vessel. Several ships of war were at Havanna, but they did not attempt to raise the blockade.

Captain Perry has politely favoured us with the Sierra Leone Gazettes, to October 27th, and files of Jamaica papers to the 13th December, inclusive. The former announce, among others, the following deaths on the Gold Coast—Elmina, the Dutch Governor; Accra, governor general of the Danish settlements, and Governor Gordon, of the English settlement.

It is said the American Colonization Society contemplate making an establishment on the Gold Coast.

Early in October a deputation arrived at Sierra Leone, from the King of the Foulahs, headed by Prince Alifa Sadoo, under whose protection came a Mahometan priest and his wife. This singular man had journeyed all the way from Egypt to the Mandingo nation. It was said he possessed important information relative to the geography of the interior of Africa, but so much caution was observed by the British residents at Sierra Leone, that very little of his information was made public. It was, however, stated that he had passed through Tombuctoo, and that he was of the opinion the Niger and the Nile were one and the same river.

It was estimated at Sierra Leone, that 50,000 slaves had been sent from the Coast within the last 12 months.

The Shark landed Mr. Ayres, agent of the American Colonization Society, at Sierra Leone on the 26th October.

The Jamaica papers state, that the Shark arrived at Port Royal on the 8th December, and saluted Fort Charles with 13 guns, which was returned by the Field Artillery of the garrison.

The British ship of war Athol, was to sail in a short time from Port Royal, for Havanna, New-York and Halifax.

The Jamaica papers contain London dates, to Nov. 2d, nearly as late as are received here.

It is stated that upwards 5000 negroes have recently died of measles in the neighbourhood of St. Jago.

Two or three vessels have been carried into Jamaica, under suspicion of their being pirates, but had all been released.

DRAMATIC SUMMARY.

Under this head, it is our intention to report such occurrences in the theatrical world as we deem to be interesting to a particular class of our readers, and without a fastidious regard to the title, we shall include notices also, of operas, concerts and other species of public amusement, though their character may occasionally be remote from that of the drama itself.

WALNUT STREET THEATRE.—The Romance of Undine was represented yester evening for the last time this Season. The announcements for to night are Speed the Plough; and the Pride of Clyde.

PRUNE STREET THEATRE.—The entertainments this evening Robinson Crusoe; or the Bold Buccaneers; and the afterpiece called The Innkeeper's Daughter. The scenery attached to both these pieces, more particularly to the first, is adapted with peculiar good taste to the action of the plot, and is not among the least of the productions, which have reflected so much credit upon the talents of the artist, Mr. Rae. We are gratified at the restoration of Mr McCleary to this Theatre, from which he has been sometime absent. His vocal talents are eminently useful, and we perceive the Manager makes no small requisition on them.

NEW YORK.—On Wednesday evening Miss JOHNSON represented the character of Albina Mandeville, Old Mr. TYLER, in the seventy-second year of his age, and after an absence of several years from the boards, having resumed the buskin, and performing Mandeville. Yesterday the Managers announced "For the Benefit of our old and Faithful Friend MR. TYLER," Lover's Vows; the afterpiece Wapping Old Robin Gray, and the farce of the Son in-law.—The New-York Gazette mentions that Mr. Tyler been attached to the Boards nearly, if not quite, half a century, and performed in the John street Theatre as long ago as 1788: that in his youth he was highly esteemed, and contributed to the support of the New-York stage for twenty-five years.

WASHINGTON.—Master G. F. Smith is delivering his readings and recitations from Shakspeare—Dryden, &c in Pennsylvania Avenue. His attempt there has been honoured by the encouraging presence of many members of Congress, and other distinguished persons. The National Intelligencer has a very favorable communication upon the subject of his juvenile dramatic proficiency.

Mrs. FRENCH, (who had announced her intention of retiring from public life) gave a concert last evening at Strother's hotel, at which she proposed to sing seven songs. Among them "The Waters of Elle"—"Cease your Punning," in the style of Madame Catalani, and the Echo—Mr. Wagner was to preside at the piano forte.

CHESNUT.—A theatre has been annexed to the circus at this place, by Mr. VILALAVE, who designs the immediate exhibition, with a large company, of equilibrium and pantomime.

The papers of that town contain many flattering remarks upon the performances of Mrs. GARRISON, whom the managers say "consented in order to gratify the public wish—to appear in Michael" (George Barnwell, Mr. Collins.) Her other appearances were in Mrs. Haller—Mrs. Oakley, and Lady Randolph—in the last of which, liberal commendations are bestowed upon her. A personal difference seems to have existed between the managers and Mr. HAYES, which the public are informed has "been adjusted to the satisfaction of all the parties, and that gentleman reinstated in his situation.

HARRISBURG.—The performances at this theatre during the present week, were—Monday, the Mountaineers, and Fortune's Frolic—Wednesday, Lover's Vows, and High Life below Stairs—Thursday, Douglas. The good folks of that place are apprized that no money is taken at the doors.

SAVANNAH.—Mr. COOPER made his first appearance on January 1st in Macbeth.—On the Saturday of that week, the last accounts we have of him, he represented Leon, in Rule a Wife and Have a Wife. Mr. Neal's play of She Would be a Soldier, is announced as being in rehearsal.—The managers of this theatre have informed the public that in consequence of "no correspondence subsisting between the number of tickets issued and received on the same day, the power is lost of obtaining a correct knowledge of the actual receipts of the theatre—and that therefore tickets will be admitted on those nights only for which they were expressly sold."

BALTIMORE.—Mr. Haddock is still exhibiting his Androides.

BOSTON.—Mr. West's benefit took place at the Amphytheatre on the evening of Tuesday last. The succeeding week closes his season at that place.

The Handel and Hayden Society, gave a grand oratorio and concert on the 15th inst. at which they were assisted by Miss DAVIS, and Mr PHILLIPS. We omitted to mention in the last summary that this gentleman identified himself with the late acts of liberality in Boston, having as well as Mr. Wallack, purchased a ticket at the price of 100 dollars at the benefit of Mr. Bray. The managers of the for expences.

In order to afford as many persons as possible a number of rehearsals, a Committee of Management was appointed at a meeting up under the direction of which the theatrical performances were conducted.

A bill has passed the House of Delegates of Maryland, authorising the Governor and Council of Baltimore to obtain the sum of [illegible] on loan, for clearing the obstructions at the mouth of the river Susquehanna. A similar bill is now before the Legislature of this state.

James W. Gazlay, Esquire, Attorney and Counsellor at law, has been indicted before the Court of Common Pleas, at Cincinnati, (Ohio,) for sundry alleged misdemeanors.

THE OLIO.

"Life's the very spice of life,
To give it all its flavour."

CHEATS DESCRIBED.

This town is full of cozenage;
Jugglers that deceive the eye,
Dealing sorcerers, that change the mind,
Soothing flowers, that deform the body,
Old chesters, prating mountebanks,
And every such-like liberties of sin!

EPITAPH ON A LAWYER.

Tho' Jacobus Straw,
Who forty years followed the law,
And when he died,
The devil cried,
Jack, give us your paw.

A LOVER DESCRIBED.

Oh thou didst then ne'er love so heartily,
If thou remember'st not the slightest folly
That ever love did make thee run into,
Thou hast not loved.
Or if thou hast not sate as I do now,
Wearying thy hearer in thy mistress' praise,
Thou hast not loved.
Or if thou hast not broke from company
Abruptly, as my passion now makes me,
Thou hast not loved.

During the present session of the Legislature at Cahawba, (Alabama) a Creek Indian came to town with mockasins for sale. Meeting with Mr. ——, near the State House, he inquired if he wanted to buy any mockasins. Mr. —— replied no, but told him if he would go to that house, pointing to the State House, and walk up stairs, (opening to the hall occupied by the Representatives,) he would see a man sitting on a high bench, at the back of the house, who wanted some. Estrechatte accordingly entered, and mounted the stairs, thinking to find a ready sale for the fruit of his labour, and already swallowed, in imagination, the delicious draught of intoxicating nectar, which the disposal of his merchandize would enable him to purchase; but, just as he had ascended the steps a station was taken, and the ayes and noes called for; the ayes were few and weak, so as not to be noticed by our red neighbour, but upon calling for the noes, a general exclamation of No! resounded through the hall;—which the Indian took as directed to himself, in anticipation of his inquiry; whereupon he turned about and hurried down stairs exclaiming, "no too much, no too much," quite disappointed in his market.

A stranger leaving a company of which Mr. Johnson was one, much inquiry was made about him to no effect. The doctor observing, that he did not like to speak ill of the absent person in his absence—but he believed he was an Attorney.

A negro servant being asked what colour he believed the devil was; why, replied he, African, the white men tell us he is black; we say he is white; but from his looking age, I guess Old Nick must be grey.

When Napoleon returned from Waterloo to Paris, he was waited upon in his palace by a little boy, for whom he had a great partiality. The boy took him some coffee. The emperor sat with his hands over his eyes. "Take some," said the little valet, "it will comfort you." "Did you not come from Gonesse?"—"No, sire: from Pierre Fite." Your parents have some few houses, lands of land and a cottage there, have they large family?"—"Yes, sire" "It is indeed a happy life!" ejaculated the emperor, and again covered his eyes and face with his hands.

WASHINGTON.—When this great and virtuous man had assembled the officers of the revolutionary army, in consequence of certain seditious anonymous letters which had been circulated among them, he rose, with awing dignity, and addressed them; and a written paper he held in his hand; then it was, that, finding himself unable to read without assistance, as he was drawing spectacles from his pocket, that unpremeditated expression broke from him, certainly the most pathetic that ever fell from man lips: "Fellow Soldiers! you perceive I have not only grown grey, but blind in your service." No bosom, no eye was proof against it.

Believe always that most people are not so good as their friends represent them, nor half so bad as they are painted by their enemies, and you may be certain of a solid, and you will derive many important benefits to go into from it.

Fore dooming.—There are five sorts of which t... footy ma... of a 24 rople whom Sir Edward Coke used to and the redoom to misery and poverty, viz. Cheists, Monopolizers, Concealers, Promotors, and Rhyming Poets.

CARRIAGES AND GIGS.

THE SUBSCRIBER respectfully tenders his thanks for the patronage which has heretofore been bestowed upon him, and apprizes his friends and the public that his establishment has recently been improved, and augmented to an extent which enables him to supply the calls of his customers at the most immediate notice. His carriages are not only fitted up in an elegant manner, but constructed and furnished so as to be at once comfortable and commodious—his principal care having been to accommodate them to the several seasons of the year. In the selection of his coachmen he has been particularly careful, that they should be sober and skilful, and that their appearance should correspond with the equipage. Despatch, diligence and attention, will be constantly given to those who honour him with their commands. The dimensions of his stable being very extensive, he is willing to receive Horses at Livery.

He has provided his establishment with a very elegant HEARSE FOR FUNERALS, with Horses and Furniture corresponding with the Vehicle and its purpose.

BROOKES'S

General Gazetteer Improved.

BENNETT & WALTON, No. 37 Market street, Philadelphia, propose to publish by subscription, BROOKES'S GENERAL GAZETTEER IMPROVED; or a new and compendious Geographical Dictionary, containing a description of the Empires, Kingdoms, States, Provinces, Cities, Towns, Forts, Seas, Harbours, Rivers, Lakes, Mountains, Capes, &c. in the known World; with the Government, Customs, Manners and Religion of the Inhabitants; the Extent, Boundaries and Natural Productions of each Country; the Trade, Manufactures, and Curiosities of the Cities and Towns; their Longitude, Latitude, Bearings and Distances in English Miles, from remarkable places; and the various events by which they have been distinguished; including the Constitution of the United States, the Ordinance of 1787, and the Constitutions of the respective States. To which will be added a succinct Account of at least fifteen hundred Cities, Towns, and Villages in America, more than has appeared in any foreign Edition of the same Work; in which the numerous mistakes and deficiencies of European Gazetteers, respecting this Country, are corrected and supplied; illustrated by a neat coloured Map of the United States. Originally written by R. Brookes, M. D. The third American, from the London edition of 1810, with additions and improvements by William Darby, member of the New York Historical Society, author of a Map and Statistical Account of Louisiana, Emigrant's Guide, and a Tour from New-York to Detroit.

In order to render this edition in a particular manner valuable to an American reader, the publishers have employed William Darby as this city as an editor, to collect and insert the names of such remarkable places on this Continent, adjacent Islands, and elsewhere, as have not hitherto found a place in any Gazetteer extant; to remodify such articles as are either erroneously or defectively stated, in the original work; and in fine, as far as practicable, to compose all the names of places worthy of notice in the world.

So many changes have taken place in Europe in the course of the last eight or ten years, as to render necessary a careful digest of the present limits of most states in that quarter of the world.

It must be obvious that in an age of active enterprize, discoveries, improvements, and changes in objects of Geographical Science, will be so rapid, and unceasing in their operations, as in a few years, to render defective or obsolete any System of Geography, however perfect it may be at the time of publication. It must also be more than app rehended, that the correctness of these observations apply with particular force to America at the present time, which, a widely extended revolution is daily developing, as objects of Geographical and Historical record, names of places, very imperfectly or entirely unknown to science, previous to the occurrence of the events, which have given them a title to literary attention: and in another quarter, the energies of a free and enterprising people are effecting alterations on the face of nature, with a celerity and an extent which has no parallel in the progress of human affairs.

The publishers deem this a propitious period to issue the intended publication. The census of the United States taken for 1820, from the various objects of statistical enquiry, embraced in its details, will give a high degree of interest to any portable work of reference, in which they are included, and being now completed, enables the editors to put the Gazetteer to press without delay.

No comment can be necessary to elucidate the advantages which must be comprised in a portable volume, in which will be concentrated the proposed improvements and additions.

TERMS.

The work to be comprised in one 8vo. volume of about 900 pages, printed on good paper, and to be illustrated by a new and neat coloured map of the United States, projected and engraved for the express purpose, to contain the political subdivisions, made up to the period of publica tion.

Price, neatly bound, Three Dollars and Fifty Cents, payable on delivery J. o. 14—6

FOR SALE, OR RENT,

Or would be exchanged for property in Philadelphia,

A HIGHLY VALUABLE TAN-YARD and FARM, situate in the Township of Upper Providence, in the county of Chester, state of Pennsylvania, 20 miles from Downingtown, three from the Yellow Springs, half a mile from the Conestoga turnpike road, and thirty miles from Philadelphia. Adjoining lands of John Boidlar, Geo...e Stiteler, and others, containing seventy-seven and half acres of the first quality land, a good proportion of which is woodland and meadow, the remainder in grass, divided into small fields with chesnut rail fences.

The buildings are in good order, consisting of a large two story stone Dwelling House, with two rooms and entry on the first floor, and four rooms on the second—a stone barn and spring house over a never failing spring, and a frame wagon house. Also a stone tenement with log stabling. There is a good apple orchard, together with a number of bearing peach, plumb, cherry, and other fruit trees.

The Lanyard contains sixteen laying-away vats with the necessary proportion of limes, handlers, &c. The buildings are a bean house, handling shed, currying shop, mill house, and a large bark house, 60 by 30 feet. Three bark mills, two of which are turned by water, and one completed, calculated to grind bark for exportation, in a neighbourhood that abounds plentifully with bark, and is perhaps excelled by none in the county, as a tanning establishment.

Enquire of JAMES ELLIOT, on the premises, or of DAVID COGGINS, No. 80 Chesnut street, Philadelphia. Jan. 12—6t
